Kieron Williamson Description Kieron Williamson is a watercolour, oil and pastel artist from Holt, Norfolk in England. His paintings and ability by the age of six have caused considerable interest in the UK media and are notable for his advanced use of perspective and shading. John Crome Description John Crome, once known as Old Crome to distinguish him from his artist son John Berney Crome, was an English landscape painter of the Romantic era, one of the principal artists and founding members of the Norwich School of painters. He lived in the English city of Norwich for all his life. John Sell Cotman Description John Sell Cotman was an English marine and landscape painter, etcher, illustrator, and a leading member of the Norwich School of painters. Born in Norwich, the son of a silk merchant and lace dealer, Cotman was educated at the Norwich Grammar School. He showed an early talent for art. Colin Self Description Colin E Self is an English Pop Artist whose work has addressed the theme of Cold War politics. As a student at the Slade School of Fine Art from 1961 to 1963 Colin Self received encouragement for his drawings and collages from the artists David Hockney and Peter Blake.	The Eastern region, Norfolk in particular, is fast becoming the home of the most innovative counties in Europe, especially within the fields of food, medicine and energy. Hubs of innovation throughout the region are driving forward practical uses of technology to benefit agriculture and bring fresh thinking to how we grow food. Norwich Research Park (NRP) houses a unique cluster of organisations at the forefront of global food and health research, including food security, healthier and more nutritious food, resilient crops and industrial biotechnology. These organisations include the John Innes Centre, Quadram Institute Bioscience (formerly the Institute of Food Research) and the Sainsbury Laboratory. Many of Norfolk's largest food processing companies - some world-leaders in their fields - employ highly skilled technologists and scientists who work closely on product development, food preservation and food safety. Our advanced manufacturing and engineering sector employs 10,000 people (10.3% of the workforce compared to 9.5% nationally) in sectors from food processing to Formula 1. More than 100 automotive engineering and related advanced manufacturing companies form growing clusters along the A11 corridor between Thetford and Norwich. Towns such as King's Lynn and Fakenham are also substantial manufacturing centres. The sector is supported by the Hethel Centre, the region's advanced manufacturing and engineering hub. This has ambitions to become a technology park (similar to NRP) and aims to develop 2,200 skilled engineering jobs as well as additional business incubation space. Norfolk County Council has set up a Digital Innovation and Efficiency Committee to improve digital connectivity in our county and exploit the

Jazz Owen Norwich-based illustrator Jazz Owen explores the world of folklore and mythology. Within her work she aims to "inspire my audience to delve deeper into the curiosities, morals and meanings of life". Magic is added to her work through mythical beasts and beings, as she is passionate to "ignite a spark of ancient lore and history that makes up a culture. Themes of astronomy and astrology are intertwined with nature to evoke an ethereal enchantment into my designs." Joe Fear Joe Fear is a fine-liner artist specialising in detailed works on the themes of femininity, the body, symbolism and the natural world. History	Music
The name "Norfolk" derives from terms which meant "the northern people". It is first mentioned in Anglo-Saxon wills dating from 1043 to 1045 and later as Norðfolc in the Anglo-Saxon Chronicle (the entry for 1075) and as Nordfolc in the Domesday Book. A local history study. Some Interesting facts about Norfolk Norfolk has over 650 medieval churches. North Walsham market cross was originally built in the 16th Century. King's Lynn Custom House was initially built in 1683. Castle Rising, a Norman fortress was built around 1140. https://www.norfolk-norwich.com/news/some-interesting-facts-about-norfolk-.php https://www.english-heritage.org.uk/visit/places/#?page=1&place=Norfolk&mp=false&fe=false The Viking and Anglo-Saxon struggle for the Kingdom of England to the time of Edward the Confessor. In January 1905 he travelled to Norfolk, visiting Tilney, Sheringham and Kings Lynn. In Lynn he heard fisherman James 'Duggie' Carter sing The Captain's Apprentice. Vaughan Williams thought it the most beautiful tune he had ever heard – despite its terrible story of a ship's captain torturing and killing his child apprentice. Who was Ralph Vaughan Williams? Born in the village of Down Ampney, Gloucestershire, Ralph Vaughan Williams was related to Charles Darwin (Ralph's great-uncle) and the ceramics giant Josiah Wedgwood (his great-great-grandfather).
